Hello Bello,

We are excited and happy to have had the opportunity to review your essay number 4012 about "How Can We Obey the Law Against War?"

As the Head Coordinator of the Public Art Africa programmes in Lagos which are supported by UR4Africa it was eye opening to learn such a pact exists.

Thank you so much for sharing your research and insight into the Kellogg Briand Pact with our students during our mural project on Peace and Security with the Nigeria police. You did a great job articulating how war also affects us in Nigeria and in various parts of Africa. Looking forward to sharing your essay on our platform (Please let us know when we can go ahead and do that) and also looking forward to the workshop you will be facilitating with our students, volunteers, and community members about the Kellogg- Briand Pact as we continue this conversation about Peace and Security in June.

The programme for June is intended to not only include our Public Art students and volunteers but local members from the communities we service. After your presentation students and community members will engage the community in conversations about Peace and Security and the Kellogg-Briand Pact. Thank you for your time and commitment!

Please let us know if you have any questions and/or concerns.

Sincerely,

Dear Shola Ajayi, I am a participant in the Peace Essay Contest organized by the West Suburban Faith-Based Peace Coalition (www.faithpeace.org).

As part of the contest, I have directed my essay on the topic - How Can We Obey the Law Against War? to you.

And it is my hope that you will help in promoting knowledge about the Kellogg-Briand Pact and How we can Obey the Law against War. Attached to this email is a document containing my essay. Also, I have copied the organisers of the competition in this email.

Patiently awaiting your response. Thank you.

Sincerely,
Bello
